Businesses Invited to the 2008 Hancock County Career Fair

Each of the 9 high schools that touch Hancock County has been invited to bring their Junior and Senior students to the Hancock County Career Fair. At this event students will learn what jobs exist in the area, which jobs they can work at right out of high school, or with a NIACC or a 4 year degree; what they will be doing on the job, what pay can be expected, what classes they should focus on.

Every business in Hancock County and the surrounding area is invited to have a booth at the Career Fair. Current job positions along with offerings like summer jobs, internships, tuition reimbursement, and job training are important issues that these students need to know about.

Nationally known speaker Milton Creagh, will speak to the students. In his no-nonsense approach he speaks to the students about work ethic and to parents about preparing their children for the real world. Two sessions are scheduled during the day for the students. A session for parents will be held at 7:00 pm in the Auditorium of the Garner-Hayfield High School.

Tomorrow's work force is in our schools today. Let's make sure our students know they can stay and/or come back to Hancock County to live, work and play.

The Hancock County Career Fair will be held on April 10, 2008 at the Garner-Hayfield High School. For more information contact Cindy Schack at 641.923.9921 or cindy@hancockcountyiowa.com
